"I, the Lord your God am your healer."

- Exodus 15:26

FINDING PEACE

There are many reasons people seek comfort. Relief of physical suffering. The strain of emotions stretched beyond our capacity. Our inability to move beyond bad habits. Ill-treatment at the hands of people who should have loved us or predators who have exploited us. Emptiness from unfulfilled hopes and dreams. This pain is very real, and humans have a propensity to insulate or hide from it.

According to God the world is a broken place with broken people who need to be fixed or "bound up." Healing the heart can only happen to people who recognize and embrace the spiritual dimension of our lives. We may then go to our Creator and invite Him to reveal Himself to us. This is the first and most important step to being healed and set free. In our Creator and His Plan we find power to meet our deepest needs.

If you do not have this kind a relationship with the Living God this is where your journey for peace must begin. Ask Him to reveal Himself to you. From your heart (even if you are skeptical) ask Him to show His life to you. The four gospels, Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John are good places to start your journey.

The person who wants to be healed must be motivated to ask and wait for healing. Jesus Christ is no mere ideology or dogma, He is Living, eternal, and waiting to respond to your request. it takes courage before healing can be found. Without this spiritual dimension you and I are unreachable to be healed. Do you have the courage to stand before your Creator and say "Please, reveal yourself to me" and "Please help me?"

To be at peace with God and ourselves we must place our faith in Christ. I am not referring to religion, because religion can keep us from God every bit as much as bring us to God. This is not self-reformation because self reformation does not last. It is encounter and invitation. I submit my will, my life, and the destiny of my soul into the hands of the One who created me. This is how I become and grow as a Christ-Follower. Be careful! Awareness of Jesus Christ's existence, family traditions, and the fact that you go to church are not certain indicators that you have this kind of relationship with God.

Courage friend! God wants you to be filled with peace.
